Poggio Doria 2019

92 Points

Darkly alluring and rich in the glass, the 2019 Brunello di Montalcino Vigneto Poggio Doria opens with a blend of rosemary and sage, giving way to steeped plums, dark chocolate and spiced orange. This is silky, nearly creamy in feel, with brisk acidity balancing out its core of tart wild berry fruit. The 2019 finishes structured and long with a bitter tinge and aggressive wood tannins penetrating deeply. The Vigneto Poggio Doria spends twelve months in a combination of new and used tonneaux, followed by another twelve months in Slavonian oak barrels before bottling. It will require serious patience to allow this to mellow.
